To Whom it may Concern:

While I was reviewing the New York Board of Elections site, I looked up Assemblyman Anthony Brindisi donation and expenditures. While looking them over I noticed he was sending several donations to the Democratic Committees within the entire Congressional District, so I went further back and found he has never done this before. He was also using monies for events that he was attending as someone running for Congress.

Then I noticed a few odd donations. He was using his State Assembly account to donate $1000 at a time to his Congressional account. So, I went to his Congressional account and can not find any donations listed from his Assembly account, but I found a lot with no name attached with the donation. I then went one step further and called the FEC and asked about these donations. I was told it was not legal for him to donate this way and to file a complaint right away.

Thank you,

Heath Phillips
